

APOLLO-RIDGE
Education Foundation

In a world where funding for education is difficult to find, the Apollo Ridge Education Foundation aims to bridge the gap.

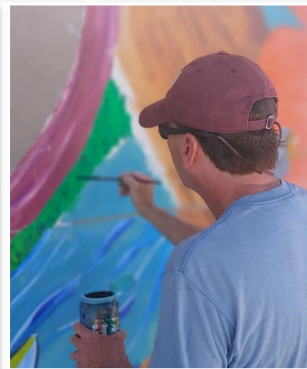

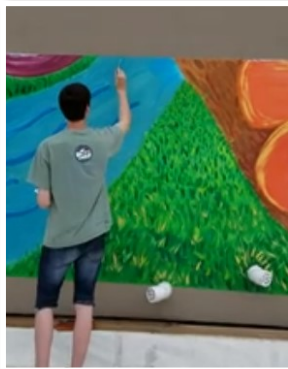

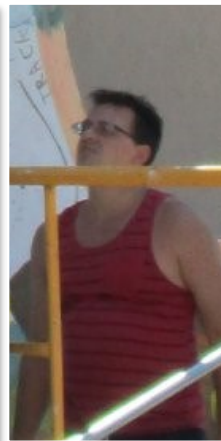

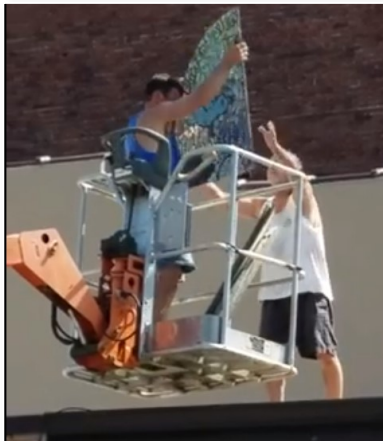

Pride in Our Past, Faith in Our Future

Summer was a blur with all the activity involved with the installation of "Pride in Our Past, Faith in Our Future," the Apollo Mosaic/Mural project created by middle and high school students last school year.

Bernie Wilke, the muralist who worked with high school students in the classroom to create the mural in the classroom, returned in July to install the project on the exterior wall of We Miss Back When Antiques' directly above Patrick's Pub.

Bernie and several of the high school students, a couple of parents, and some community volunteers spent about two weeks blending the twelve individual panels of the mural into one 50' x 15' masterpiece.

The seven 5' oval mosaics, created by grade 7 and 8 art students under the direction of Laura Jean McLaughlin, were installed by a couple dozen members of a church youth group.

ARCONIC GRANT TO FUND CREATION OF PAVILLION/STORAGE SHED FOR TRACK EVENTS

ARCONIC

Innovation, engineered.

For the third year in a row, the Education Foundation has been the recipient of a grant from Arconic Foundation.

Creating a pavilion/storage shed at the track will offer a multi-disciplinary learning opportunity for students in business, industrial math, and tech ed.

Using CAD software, industrial math students will design the facility which will be built by the tech ed students. Obtaining permits and keeping track of the grant and the associated expenses will fall under the responsibility of the business students.

Arconic creates breakthrough products that shape industries and solve their customers' toughest challenges - those that require ingenuity and engineering and technical expertise from the brightest minds.

Arconic Foundation supports that mission by helping to prepare tomorrow's workforce for successful, rewarding careers that advance the future of manufacturing while keeping their communities strong and vibrant.
